Day Clocks: A Buyer’s Guide

A simple clock can ease confusion, stress and anxiety for anyone with memory loss or dementia. In fact, it could be the most useful thing you buy. Here’s how to make sure you pick the right one for you:

Which one is for you?

✔ Adaptable: It has to change with our needs

Our good value day clocks offer you a choice of more than one display screen, for example, the new Unforgettable Day Clock with Reminders has five screens. The Unforgettable 2-in-1 Calendar & Day Clock has two. Try to avoid cheaper clocks with only one display screen, as you might end up having to buy another clock later on.

✔ Extra helpful: I want to be able to set reminders

Some clocks come with pre-recorded messages, such as ‘It’s time for breakfast’ or, ‘Take your tablets.’ Some also allow you to create your own, personalised messages. The newest clocks also have an internet connection which means you can set personalised messages from a distance (i.e., via your smartphone) that will then appear on the clock. For example, The Unforgettable Reminder Day Clock or The DayClock Plus.

✔ Portable: I want to use it in different rooms

A battery powered clock might be your best option. There are several to choose from, such as The Battery Powered Calendar & Day Clock with Photo Frame which offers good value for money at £24.99 and allows you to display photos too.

Our great value best-seller

The Unforgettable 2-in-1 Calendar & Day Clock

Our best-selling clock offers great value for money and suits a wide range of people and needs. It has two different display screens; one shows the exact time, day and date for people who just need it to be prominently displayed, the other shows just the day of the week and whether it’s morning, afternoon evening or night – perfect for when time is getting muddled. It’s also available in two different screen sizes and frame colours.

Key features

✔ Choose either the 8” screen with a white frame or the 7” screen with a black frame
✔ High contrast, clear LED screen
✔ Plug in and play; just press a button at the back to change settings
✔ Can be set to the 12 or 24-hour clock
✔ Includes a built-in stand – place it wherever it’s most needed. Plus, the 8” white clock is wall mountable
✔ Displays in 8 different languages

Tracking Devices: A Buyer’s Guide

GPS trackers change lives. These clever little gadgets provide peace of mind for you and the person you care about. Here’s how to make sure you buy one to suit your needs...

Which tracker is for you?

✔ Simplicity: I want something simple

Choose a tracker that doesn’t have lots of extra features you may not use, such as the Yepzon One GPS Locator. Or choose one that has a specialised customer support service, so you can call if you get stuck, such as Unforgettable’s Personal Alarm and GPS Tracker.

✔ Speed: I need to be able to find them quickly

GPS trackers work via your smartphone. Some have apps which you download, others require you to send a text to the tracker. Both work quickly. For app users, the Yepzon One GPS Locator is easy to operate. Texters may prefer the Unforgettable Personal Alarm and GPS Tracker.

✔ Discretion: it must be totally discreet

All our GPS trackers are small and portable. But if you’re worried they might forget to take it, you could try something different, such as shoe insoles with a built in GPS tracker or a wrist watch that’s also a tracker. Try GPS Smart Soles, or the WatchU Guardian GPS Tracker.

✔ Extra features: I’d like more for my money

Trackers often have extra features, e.g., some also work as a simple two-way phone, others have an SOS button or a fall detector. The Unforgettable Personal Alarm and GPS Tracker contains all these extra features and the DORO Secure 580 with GPS contains a few. Check before you buy.

The all-round favourite:

The Unforgettable Personal Alarm & GPS Tracker

Peace of mind is yours...at the press of a button. This great value tracker provides reassurance for families and independence for those they care about. It has several inbuilt features including an SOS button, fall detector, two way calling and geofencing. A geofence is a ‘safe zone’ that you can set up on the tracker, so if the person using the tracker leaves that area you will be notified - ideal for always knowing where your loved one is and if they need help. The tracker is also extremely light and can be attached to a key ring for total discretion.

Key features

✔ GPS tracking and location alerts - simply text to reveal the tracker location
✔ Discreet and easy to set up
✔ Attach to a key ring or pendant to make it a part of everyday life
✔ Waterproof against showers and rain
✔ Small and light (weighs less than 2 AA batteries)

DID YOU KNOW?
Urinary Tract Infections (UTIs) can increase the likelihood of incontinence; if the person you are caring for seems to be more confused than usual and has excessive need to use the toilet, it’s advisable to consult your GP. Medication can be prescribed to accelerate recovery, reducing the distress and discomfort of urinary incontinence.

Sort out your Lasting Power of Attorney today!

If you or a loved one has dementia you need to take out a Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA) as soon as possible. Otherwise, you could find yourself facing lots of unnecessary costs and complications later on.

What happens if you don’t have an LPA?

The people you trust will not be able to manage your affairs if you lose mental capacity. Instead, they will have to go through a much more expensive and lengthy process involving the Court of Protection before they can obtain permission. This process can result in lawyers and accountants making decisions on your behalf.

Here are 3 important points to consider:

1. Trusting your family isn’t enough: Loved ones will not automatically be allowed to look after your affairs if you aren’t able to. You need to make your wishes clear in a legal document (an LPA) so that they can make important decisions about your finances or health care on your behalf.

2. Having a joint bank account isn’t enough: Without an LPA, any joint bank accounts will be frozen if one of the account holders is considered to have lost their mental capacity, leaving the other account holder unable to pay bills or access funds. This might sound harsh, but the law is designed to protect vulnerable people from financial abuse or fraud. Whilst you may have your loved one’s best interests at heart, others may not.

3. An LPA doesn’t have to be expensive or difficult: We have lots of information to help you get it done, including a FREE eBook and legal experts to guide you every step of the way. So don’t delay – sort out your LPA (and then get on with enjoying your life!)!
